Diabetes Training 101 Inc. CDE Exam Prep Course 2027

Information for Managers

One of your staff is planning to write the Canadian Diabetes Educator (CDE) exam in May 2027 and would like to take this prep course. Here is what it is, who teaches it, and what your organization gains.

The course

- 18 live webinars, Wednesdays at 6:00 p.m. Saskatchewan time, January 13 to May 12, 2027. Evenings, so there is no time away from clinical work; every session is recorded for convenient reviewing.
- Built on the CDECB competency profile and the current Diabetes Canada Clinical Practice Guidelines, including the 2024 and 2025 updates.
- Weekly readings, practice quizzes with explanations, case work and a 140-question mock exam.

Who teaches it

- Michelle Archer, RD, CDE: Diabetes Canada's Diabetes Educator of the Year for 2025, with more than 20 years in patient care and professional training.
- Leads the Diabetes Manager University professional training program and has trained more than 600 health professionals across Canada. Guest presenters with expertise in key areas lead selected weeks.

Value for your organization

- Staff bring current, guideline-based diabetes knowledge back to your clients and team.
- Supports certification, which strengthens your diabetes education program.
- Guarantee: if your staff member does not pass, they can take the course again at no charge in any of the next three prep courses, so you pay once.

Cost and payment

- $695 plus tax per person; $595 per person for teams of 3 or more, or during the presale to December 18, 2026.
- Black Friday to Cyber Monday, November 27 to 30, 2026: the prep course plus the DMU self-study for $899 plus tax (regular $1,095). The invoice request must be sent during these dates to get this price; we then hold it until the purchase order arrives, up to December 18.
- We invoice your organization or accept a purchase order. A certificate of completion is provided.

"The DMU program, led by Michelle Archer of Diabetes Training, has been providing our program's diabetes education for the past decade. These instructors are providing the home care nurses and continuing care assistants with new practical information/skills."

-Gerald Hoffman, RN BSN, Home Care Nurse Practice Advisor, File Hills Community Health Services Inc.

Questions or invoice requests: info@diabetestraining.ca | 306-501-9355 | www.diabetestraining.ca

An independent course, not affiliated with or endorsed by the Canadian Diabetes Educator Certification Board.*